Dear Customer

Thank you for contacting us about the decision made on a visit visa application. We understand you are disappointed that your Entry Clearance to visit the UK has been refused.

The points raised in your correspondence have been considered. As detailed in the decision letter visitor visa applications do not have a right of appeal or administrative review. The complaints process is not available to provide remedy for customers dissatisfied with the decision in their individual immigration application.

Visa applicants must meet all immigration eligibility requirements, and the decision maker must be satisfied that the requirements are met. If the information provided does not meet these requirements the application will be refused.

If choosing to apply again, we recommend addressing the points raised in the decision letter and providing all evidence in support of the application. Any future applications will be considered on individual merit; the outcome will depend on the information provided at that time.
